py ending that leaves a great impression. Tomorrow, the beautiful star, Louise Glaum, will be seen in "The Toast of Death."

Pleasing pictures are being shown at the Star theater these days. "The Key to the Mystery," a splendid production full of thrills in four acts, and "Montana Blount," a two-part drama of western life are shown today.

Thursday, a very funny comedy in three reels entitled "Silk Rose and High Pressed," will be a splendid offering.

Memories of the olden days of San Francisco, with the quaint styles and seriousness that characterized the pioneer life of the early settlers, are vividly recalled in "The Other Side of the Door," a forthcoming American Mutual Masterpiece.

Jacques Jaccard is rapidly nearing the completion of his first five-reel western Universal feature, "A Knight

Man Always Has Excuse For Taking a Drink

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 6.—Here are the opinions of Judge Monroe on the drinking subject, delivered from the bench:

"I don't take any stock in a woman taking a drink because she is ill. A man always has an excuse for taking a drink."

"No woman whose husbands drinks has any business to keep liquor in the house."

"You can't stop a man from drinking by drinking yourself."

These expressions were delivered during the trial of the divorce suit brought by Fannie W. Martin on the ground of habitual intoxication.

Under close questioning by Judge Monroe, Mrs. Martin admitted that she took a drink occasionally. She said she had been advised to take beer by her friends because she was ill.

Martin admitted that he took several drinks a day, but held that he did not become intoxicated.

"Maybe this defendant is one of those men who cannot drink without the liquor affecting him," said the court. "He ought not to drink at all."

The decree was denied.

Did Not Leave Husband's Bed, Says His Wife

SUNBURY, Pa., Dec. 6.—That her husband's assertion that she left his bed and board is untrue is declared by Mrs. Charles F. Bowman, of Sunbury. She says they only had one bed, and it was hers.

In a local paper Bowman published this notice:

"My wife, Helen, having left my bed and board without just cause, I hereby give notice that I will not be responsible for any bills contracted by her."

Mrs. Bowman replaced her husband's "ad" with the following:

"I, Helen E. Bowman, did not leave the bed of my husband, Charles F. Bowman; we only had one bed, and that belonged to me."

Mrs. Bowman says she will sue for divorce.

Nebraska Alfalfa Crop Is Worth Many Millions

LINCOLN, Dec. 4.—Nebraska's 1915 alfalfa crop, according to figures prepared by the state board of agriculture, presents a nice little gold mine, the value being $24,531,558, figuring the price at $6 a ton.

There were 1,181,310 acres raised in the state, which produced 4,088,598 tons, an average of 3.42 tons per acre. This would make each acre produce on an average of something like $20.80.

Dawson county raised the largest crop, 161,000 tons, while Hooker raised only 626 tons. The highest yield per acre was in Douglas and Polk counties, where the average is given at 4.7. The smallest was in Banner county, 1.8 being the average tons.

LAURA HOPE CREWS IS STARRED AT GRAND

Is Seen in an Entirely New Character in a Lasky Production.

Those who enjoyed the wonderful are of Laura Hope Crews in the Lasky-Belasco production of "The Fighting Hope" are to have an opportunity to see her again in an entirely different type of women in "Blackbirds," the latest Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company release which is at the Robinson Grand today.

In "Blackbirds" Miss Crews plays the clever queen of a band of crooks who operate all over the world. When this play was presented at the Lyceum theater, New York, Miss Crews scored a dramatic triumph as the star of the production in the same role in which she will be seen on the screen. Miss Crews is a great believer in motion picture acting as part of the training of any dramatic star.

Tomorrow, Emmy Wehlen, the delightful little Viennese actress, will be presented in a modern photodrama entitled "Her Reckoning, or Tables Turned."

Maurice, of the Maurice and Walton dancing team, is going to his home in Belgium, to see his father, who is dangerously ill. He is to appear during the holidays in "Folly That," in which Elizabeth Marbury is to feature him and Miss Walton.

This is opening day for Triangle feature pictures at the Bijou theater. Those who appreciate features will welcome it. "The Lamb," a five-act photoplay with Douglas Fairbanks in the little role is the headliner. It was directed by D. W. Griffith, the man who made "The Birth of a Nation," which fact alone assures the public of its class. The New York Tribune says "The Lamb" outdoes

Mabel Norman, featured in Triangle Comedy, "My Valet," at the Bijou Theater.

"The Birth of a Nation" in its thrills. Raymond Hitchcock and Mabel Norman are seen in "My Valet," a comedy in two acts directed by Mack Sennett. Everybody knows Mr. Hitchcock's ability as a fun maker, and he has simply spread himself in this one.

Triangle pictures will run the first four days of each week at the Bijou, each picture running two days. "The Lamb" and "My Valet" runs Monday and Tuesday. As previously announced, all Triangle programs will contain seven reels, making a show one and three-fourth hours long.

There is general praise for the production in New York of Robert Louis Stevenson's story, "Treasure Island," the dramatization of which was made by Jules Eckert Goodman. In the cast were W. J. Ferguson, Oswald Yorke, David Glassford, Tim Murphy, Edward Emery, Charles Hopkins, the director, and Mrs. Hopkins.

"The Man on the Box," Harold McGrath's delightful comedy and Henry E. Dixey's greatest stage success, will be presented tonight at the Palace theater by the Lewis-Oliver players. A complete production in every detail will be given.

This play has a record of 209 nights in New York, 187 nights in Chicago, 190 nights in Boston, seventy-five nights in Philadelphia, fifty nights in San Francisco and large runs in other large cities.

There are plenty of happy moments in "The Man on the Box." The comedy fairly sparkles at all times. This play will be given for three nights with a special matinee Wednesday at 2:30 o'clock.

Petite Irene Hunt is featured in "The Stab," a strong play by the Reliance Company, which will be released on the regular Mutual program. This tragedy of a mismatched husband and wife brings out the remarkable depth and finish of Miss Hunt's performance. She is ably supported by William Hinkle.

The Frohmans Company offers the great photoplay, "Body and Soul," today at the Orpheum theater. The legitimate stage star, Florence Rockwell, appears in the leading role and her extremely clever acting adds greatly to the supreme quality of the production. The story is an adaptation from the famous novel by William Hurlbut, who has contributed a large number of stories for film dramatization.

The plot is very interesting, telling of a dual personality and has a hap-

Nearly All the Coaches of Leading Teams in Harness for 20 Years

—By FIELDING H. YOST—

(Coach Yost has had charge of college teams for a long time, and it was suggested to him that he could tell some interesting things of coaches and coaching. The following article is the result of the campaign.—Editor.)

Copyright 1915 by the Central Press Association.

It never occurred to me how long I had been coaching football teams until some one asked me about a week or two ago. When I counted up the time, I found that nineteen years have passed since I started.

It may seem that I am getting to be something of a veteran, but as a matter of fact, many of the leading college coaches were in the harness when I started, and had been for some time.

Stagg, Dr. Williams, Warner and others who are still handling big university teams were on the job ahead of me. Even the so-called younger coaches have been at work for ten or twelve years.

F. H. Yost.

I then, and later went to Cornell and Carleton. Now he is at the University of Pittsburgh.

When I started, Percy Haughton, who made such a big success of this year's Harvard team, broke in about the same time I did. As I remember, he was coaching Cornell then.

Brooke, "By" Dickson and Wharton, old Penn men, also have been in the games about twenty years. They have all worked on the Pennsy team this year.

Sarge, Cornell coach, and McGugin at Vanderbilt have been going about twelve years. "Speedy" Rush, now at Princeton, has been in the game about that long.

Benny Owens, who has made a winner of Oklahoma, is my oldest pupil now in the coaching business. He was quarterback at Kansas. He has been coaching for seventeen years, fourteen of them at Oklahoma.

Two other coaches who are getting to be veterans are Donahue of Auburn and Heilmann of Georgia Tech. They have had a lot of victories to their credit.

The game is much more interesting now, from a spectator's standpoint, than it was when I began. That is on account of the open game, and the going away with mass plays. While there is plenty of line plugging today, it is in the nature of driving or blocking in attack rather than mass play. The players know more of the science of the game now. There is more skill and headwork than in the old days.

PORTABLE MAP

For Use of Air Scouts is Invented by Gunnery Sergeant of Marine Corps.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—A portable military and naval topographical map for use of air scouts in the field, and which will enable them to make quick and realistic reports of observations, has been invented by Gunnery Sergeant Herman G. Stroschein of the United States marine corps.

Worm gearing, operated by telescopic thumb screws from the sides of the map, will create elevations and depressions thereon, showing terrain, contours of valleys, bodies of water, etc., and should make the aviator's report clear to the newest man in the field of operations, Stroschein claims.

The map will be very light though strongly built, and it is thought by many military men that one of the great problems confronting aviators in the field—speed and accuracy in observation description—will have been overcome by the use of the marine sergeant's invention.

Gunnery Sergeant Stroschein is on duty at the headquarters of the United States marine corps in this city.

HYMNS REPLACE HOPS

PLINT, Mich., Dec. 6.—From a brewery to a Methodist church is the evolution of a Flint building. After being the only brewery here for twenty years, and located on a site held by a brewery for forty years, the large building has been sold to the Lake View Methodist Episcopal church for $6,400—less than one-third the original cost. Four years of "dryness" is responsible. Alterations will begin immediately, and church services held in the new edifice in the near future.

NINE KILLED

In Battle between Striking Farm Hands and Posse of Detectives.

CLARKTON, Mo., Dec. 6.—Farm laborers near here, were checked in their war of depredation against their employers when they clashed with a posse of private detectives. In the battle seven laborers and two officers were killed. The laborers had been going forth as night riders to destroy the property of their employers. They were trying to force higher wages and lower prices for food.

The feud has been in progress for several months and has spread until now it is through New Madrid county in southeast Missouri. No depredations have been committed since the bloody battle.

Legacy

Received by Barber from Estate of Man He Had Often Shaved.

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., Dec. 6.—George Hoehn, a barber of this city, has fallen heir to $15,000 under the will of Francis E. Miller, a New York millionaire, who died a short time ago. Hoehn shaved Miller for about a year while employed as a barber at the Hotel Astor, but never formed any more than the usual acquaintance that a barber has with a regular customer. That was about seven years ago and Miller was then an old man. Hoehn says that when his good luck was first made known to him he regarded it as a joke, but changed his tune when the lawyer rather resented such inference. Hoehn is going right ahead shaving customers and declares he will not even take a day off until he has a certified check for the $15,000 in his hands.

BEGGAR GETS FORTUNE

WEBB CITY, Mo., Dec. 6.—S. R. Cotton, a blind beggar of this city, who had just learned that he had inherited $650,000, announced the other day that he would undergo an operation to have his sight restored, and then he intended to start a bank in Webb City. Cotton's inheritance came from the estate of Powell Cotton, a brother, who owned a large plantation near Richmond, Ark.

JOKE NOT SO FUNNY

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 6.—As he returned home from a hunting trip Stephen Reber, of Cressona, leaned on a gun while talking to friends. Rufus Reed, a little boy, thought he saw a good chance to play a joke on Reber and playfully pulled the trigger. The discharge took away part of Reber's neck and narrowly missed the jugular vein. While serious, Reber will recover.
